Technically speaking, this is a good game. Graphics are excellent, textures and models are good quality, movement and collision detection are satisfactory. No glitches or crashes from a bit of play-testing. It thus comes as no surprise this game was built using the Unity toolkit. Good choice, Mr or Mrs Developer!

Sound effects strike me as an aspect which could stand to be improved. For example, walking on grass should sound more like a walk in the park. Every footstep sounds a bit different, and nature itself confers its own sounds to the experience - birds chirping, leaves rustling and even the occasional breeze as it blows over my ear. More detail leads to greater immersion, and isn't that really the whole point of this simulator?

I admit this experience was more enjoyable than any meat world experience when I was desperate to find or use a toilet. For those who yearn for this experience without the physical discomfort, this game may satisfy that itch.. Technically speaking, this is a good game.
